Jonathan:

I wanted to let you guys know that in accordance with the Administrative Order on Consent (AOC), Stephen Halasz is listed as my primary point of contact. In the past, this has been an issue because he was not free to speak to me candidly because of his contractual relationship with his client (NORCO). This situation has resulted in situations where information has been withheld and decisions that were made without consulting with me. You have been previously informed about this problem. Prior to us moving forward on this project, I want to be able to trust that the information that I am being provided is accurate and correct. If you guys are wanting to assign a new primary contact in accordance with the requirements of the AOC, please review the AOC and submit the appropriate notification. Otherwise, please confirm that Steve Halasz is my contact and make sure that he understands that I expect complete and full openness and transparency in regards to the activities associated with this response without directions otherwise from the management team of Lazarus, NORCO, etc. Additionally, I expect the same openness and transparency from you and other employees of Lazarus and any of your other contractors. You and I have already had conversations related to this but I wanted to confirm my expectations in these regards.

Also, I was expecting a defined schedule today from Steve Wilson but I know he had to take his wife to the ER the other day. I expect communications in regarding this if the information will not be supplied as indicated.

Thanks
